1. What is the main idea of the passage?  The author is trying to tell us that we should be more careful when we use the Internet.

The Internet is a very useful tool.

It can help us to find information, to communicate with others, and to do many other things.

However, there are some dangers of the Internet. For example, we can be cheated or scammed when we buy things online. We can also be addicted to the Internet and spend too much time on it.

To avoid these dangers, we should be careful when we use the Internet. We should not give out our personal information easily, and we should not believe everything we see online.

Only in this way can we use the Internet safely and enjoy its benefits.

Therefore, we should use the Internet wisely and responsibly.
